

Artist Features: Lin Bao Ling (Taiwan, Singapore based)
 Source: Singapore FHM, August 2008, Page 16

INCOMING STUFF

Etc 08/08

The artist

NIGHT VISION

While you're out drinking at night, this artist goes painting quarries.

Little Guilin, that odd, disused granite quarry in Bukit Batok, is now the subject of an exhibition (Nocturne IV) by award-winning artist Lin Bao Ling – known for his remarkable ability to capture the beauty of nightscapes. So while you've been doing tequila shots and eating chicken wings by the bucket, Lin has been artistically productive. His "illuminated" paintings, with lights from the neighboring buildings, gives Little Guilin a heightened sense of meditative serenity. Do wipe your hands before you go visit the exhibition.

Nocturne IV, from 18 July till end August. Level 5, Marina Mandarin Singapore.
www.asianartoptions.com

Singapore FHM Magazine cover August 2008

DAMN SOTONG

The Hawaiian creation myth suggests that the octopus is the only survivor from a former alien universe. Video of an octopus eating a shark:
<http://video.google.com/videoplay?docid=7004909622962894202>

The wedding

CREATURE COMFORT

News flash: Shrek marries Ilona!

One half of our favourite comedy team got married earlier his month. Justin Ang (nickname "Shrek") – the bouncer half of 98.7FM's Muttons – married his princess Ilona in a royal wedding.

What's cute is the wedding invite, done up like the movie, with a comic page to tell us their backstory. Just like Shrek, this is too funny, too cool. Congrats!

